Dear Neighbors,

As your new state senator, I am honored to serve the people of the 47th District and I will make sure your voice is heard in Olympia.

If you recently moved into the 47th, I would like to welcome you to the district. We are a dynamic and diverse group of communities, from the Renton Highlands in the north, to Black Diamond in the south. My family and I have chosen to make this area our home because it is an ideal place to live, work and play.

Sen. Claudia Kauffman receives the oath of office from Supreme Court Chief Justice Gerry Alexander during swearing-in ceremonies to open the 60th Legislative session.

Please use this guide as a tool to contact the government officials and community services in our district. It includes phone numbers, mailing addresses, and Web sites for everyone from members of your city government, to the President of the United States. Government works best when citizens are involved, and I encourage you to stay informed and contact the people who represent you.

This session, the Legislature will focus on an issue that affects everyone in our state – education. We have the opportunity, and you have my commitment, to make a significant down payment toward our children's future by investing in Washington's education system. I hope you will contact my office to tell me how the Legislature can improve your child's education or your own.

Thank you for the privilege of serving as your state senator. Please take a minute to fill out the postcard in the back of this guide, and let me know what's on your mind.

Sincerely,

Sen. Claudia Kauffman

Understanding the Legislature

How Your Voice Can Be Heard

Washington has one of the most open Legislatures in the country. Every bill being considered by the House or Senate must be discussed in open hearings before the appropriate committees. Citizens are welcome and encouraged to attend committee hearings and to testify on issues important to them.

While words like “hearing” and “testify” may sound forbidding, they simply represent your opportunity to come to Olympia and tell lawmakers how you feel before action is taken on an issue. For more information on how to testify effectively, write the State Capital Information Center or call my office (360) 786-7692 for a free brochure.

You can leave messages for your state representatives and senator supporting or opposing bills or issues by calling 1-800-562-6000 toll free, Monday-Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

When you call, be prepared to leave your name, address and telephone number, so we can contact you after receiving your message. It’s helpful if you are specific about the issue or bill you are calling about, and who should receive your message. If you don’t get through the first time, please try again.

The Washington State Legislature

Washington has two legislative bodies representing 49 legislative districts. The House of Representatives has 98 members serving two-year terms. The Senate has 49 members serving four-year terms. There are two representatives and one senator from each legislative district.

The Legislature convenes in regular session each year on the second Monday in January. The sessions are constitutionally limited to 105 days in odd-numbered years and 60 days in even-numbered years. Extraordinary or special sessions may be called by the Governor, or the Legislature may call itself into session by a two-thirds vote of both houses.

How a Bill Becomes a Law

- 1) A bill may be introduced by a member in either the Senate or House of Representatives, but the procedure by which a bill becomes a law is much the same wherever the bill originates. After a bill is filed with the Secretary of the Senate, it is given a number, and unless a majority demands it be read in full, it is read the first time by title only in open session of the Senate. It is then referred to a Senate standing committee.
- 2) The committee studies the bill and often holds public hearings on it. The committee will then meet to consider the information it has gathered. It may approve the bill with or without amendments, draft a new bill on the same subject incorporating the desired changes, or take no action.
- 3) The committee is now ready to report back to the Senate. If the majority is in favor of the bill as introduced or with certain amendments, the chairman recommends the bill for passage. The committee report is read in open session of the Senate, and the bill is then referred to the Rules Committee.
- 4) After the bill has been recommended for passage by the standing committee to which it was originally referred, the Rules Committee can either place it on the second reading calendar for debate before the entire body, or take no action.
- 5) When the bill appears on the calendar for second reading, it is subject to amendment. It is then returned to the Rules Committee where it must receive a favorable vote before being placed on the third reading calendar for final passage. This referral to Rules is often bypassed by a vote of the Senate, and the bill is placed on final passage immediately following its second reading. Depending upon the degree of controversy, debate may last a few minutes, to several hours, or even several days.
- 6) After passing the Senate, the bill will go through an almost identical procedure in the House. If the bill is passed by the House but amended by that body, the Senate must concur with the amendments. If the Senate does not accept the change in the bill, a conference committee may be requested to resolve the difference.

- 7) If the conference committee cannot agree, a free conference committee may be appointed with power to rewrite the amendment or even write an entirely new bill. When the conferees agree, they report to their respective houses. Their report is either accepted or rejected without any changes.
- 8) If the report is accepted by both houses, the bill is signed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House in open sessions of each body. It is then sent to the governor for approval.

Legislative Information on the Internet

www.leg.wa.gov

In the interest of improved public access to legislative information, the Washington State Legislature has created the LEGInfo public access service on the Internet at www.leg.wa.gov.

LEGInfo provides three familiar ways for Internet users to access a wide variety of legislative information:

- World Wide Web (www)
- Anonymous File Transfer Protocol (<ftp>)
- E-Mail

Information is provided on a timely basis and at no cost to customers.

What Types of Information are Available?

LEGInfo provides the following information for the current session:

Bills: The full text of all versions of each bill. (In this document “bills” refers to all measures under consideration by the Legislature.)

Amendments: The text of all amendments received at the rostrum for consideration on the floor.

Initiatives and Referenda: Full text.

Bill Reports: The text of all bill reports prepared by committee staff for each bill that is reported by committee. Only the current version of the House Bill Report, Senate Bill Report, and Final Bill Report for each bill is available.

Digests: The text of the summaries of bills prepared by the Code Reviser’s Office. Only the current version of each digest is available.

Bill Histories: A chronological listing of all the actions that have taken place on each bill.

Sponsor Reports: For each member or requester, a listing in numerical order of the bills that member has sponsored. The listing includes a brief description and the current status of each bill.

Roll Calls: A record of how members voted on a particular issue or question. The report indicates the chamber, the date, a description of what is being voted upon (for example, an amendment or final passage), the vote totals, and the names of those who voted in the minority or were absent or excused.

Member Information: Members' names, office addresses, office telephone numbers, committee assignments, and some Internet addresses.

Committee Schedules: The daily and weekly committee schedules as prepared by the House Office of Program Research and Senate Committee Services.

Calendars: Combined calendar for each chamber for each day. The calendar for each chamber lists the bills that will be introduced, as well as the bills that are on second reading, third reading, in dispute, and in conference committee. There are also monthly schedules; a session calendar that lists the calendar dates, the associated legislative days, and legislative cutoff dates; and a monthly calendar of Capitol Campus events.

Committee Reports: The bills reported out of a particular committee on a given day.

Daily Status: The current status of all bills under consideration by the Legislature.

Topical Index: A list of topics and associated bills.

Ethics Opinions: Full text.

Legislative District Lookup: People who don't know their legislative district number can enter their home street address and zip to find out who represents them in the Legislature. People may also view maps and information about their district.

Legislative Agency Information: View general information about the House and Senate, as well as other legislative agencies, boards, and statutory and standing committees.

LEGInfo also contains the full text of the entire Revised Code of Washington (RCW) and the Washington State Constitution. Users can perform basic word searches on the bills and the RCW.

An Opportunity for the Youth to Get Involved

Work as a Page

Young people can jump right into the thick of the legislative activities by working as a page. A page helps legislators and staff transport documents, responds to requests on the Senate floor, and presents flag during Senate floor sessions. Students page for one week, from Monday through Sunday (Saturday and Sunday only if the Senate is in Session) with a two-hour orientation session the Sunday afternoon before the assigned week. Each workday begins at 7:45 a.m. and usually ends at 5 p.m. Housing is not provided, but the Senate can offer assistance in finding a host home.

To serve as a page a student must:

- Have a senate sponsor;
- Receive parent and school permission to participate
- Have a Social Security number; and
- Be at least 14 years old but no older than 16

In addition to experiencing the Legislature first hand, pages meet other students from all around the state and are paid $35 for each day worked.

More information can be found at: www.leg.wa.gov/WorkingwithLeg/PageSchool/

Invitation to Olympia

Washington's Capitol Building and its surrounding campus make Olympia one of the nation's most beautiful state capitals.

The Capitol Campus is a year-round tourist destination and the Legislative Building is its centerpiece. Originally completed in 1927, the Capitol was refurbished for the state's Centennial in 1989.

Olympia visitors also can enjoy the Temple of Justice where the Supreme Court meets, the Governor's Mansion, the Old Capitol Building and several veterans' memorials situated on the 30-acre campus.

Capitol Tours: Public tours are held daily from 10 a.m.- 3 p.m. on the hour (registration not required). Larger groups or schools should call (360) 902-8880 to schedule a private tour or check www.ga.wa.gov/visitor/tour.htm.

Voter Registration

To register to vote, you must be:

- A citizen of the United States
- A legal resident of Washington state
- At least 18 years old by election day

You may register to vote at any time, but you must be registered at least 30 days in advance of an election if you wish to vote at a polling place on election day. You may also register between 30 and 15 days before an election, but you must do so at a location designated by the county elections officer, and you will be required to vote by absentee ballot

How to register: Mail-in registration forms are available from your county auditor or county elections department as well as many public libraries, schools and other government offices. "Motor Voter" registration is offered when you renew or apply for your driver's license.

Absentee ballots: You may request an absentee ballot as early as 45 days before an election. (No absentee ballots are issued on election day except to hospitalized voters.) Absentee ballots may be requested either by phone or by mail from the county elections officer. You may also apply in writing to automatically receive an absentee ballot before each election.

NOTE: Absentee ballots must be signed and postmarked or delivered to the county election officer on or before election day.
